This statement I have frequently characterized as economically unsound, a declaration of civic bankruptcy, the product of a false philosophy--because the philosophy of despair. Superintendent Hotchkiss w: as appointed to his present position by the man who wrote the report of the Armstrong Committee and naturally represented his views. Now he has seen a great light. It did not fall upon him from heaven--as in the case of the first great persecutor of the Church, but, having an open mind, it came as a result of a full knowledge of the business, gained by nearly three years of unremitting labor in its supervision. During this time all the companies of the State have been examined under his direction. He has just finished an examination of one of the three companies referred to in the committee s report...
